THREE TOUGH TOWNS

Bush faces difficult talks in Beijing, Seoul, and Tokyo.

Beijing. Bush's meetings with President Jiang Zeming and Premier Zhu Rongji on Feb. 21-22 will be the last and easiest leg of the trip. The Bush team wants to thank the Chinese for supporting the U.S. war on terror and not moving to block American military moves in Central Asia, close to the Chinese border. Neither country wants radical Islamic movements to spread. "Now both sides see more common ground", says a senior Chinese government official. That doesn't mean China won't keep criticizing. Foreign Ministry spokesman Kong Quan said that Bush's singling out of Iran, Iraq, and North Korea as an evil trio was not "conducive to world and regional peace".

For his part, Bush will keep pressing the Chinese to stop selling weapons technology to rogue states. The US just sanctioned two Chinese companies for selling Iran products that can be used in chemical weapons.
